STRONSAY DEVELOPMENT TRUST IS LOOKING FOR ADDITIONAL DIRECTORS

We are a charity that is actively engaged in improving the quality of life and providing greater opportunities for members of the community.

What will you be doing?

We are looking for new Trustees to join our board. You should be passionate about wanting to make a difference in your community. Whether you're an experienced trustee, or wanting to take your first steps at Board level, we would love to hear from you.

The trustees manage the services which we currently provide, and we would also like to increase our range of specific skills and experience.

What are we looking for?

We want hands-on Trustees who have the time actively to make a difference to the running of the charity and its growth. Trustees are expected to attend one board meeting every month, and to potentially get involved in a particular activity or area of the charity's work.

We welcome applications from those whose skills & life experiences could help make Stronsay an even more rewarding place to live and work. The composition of the Board should reflect the diversity of the local community.

What's in it for the volunteer?

Being a Trustee is extremely rewarding and you can develop new skills and experience in leadership, management and governance even if you are previously unfamiliar with working as part of committees. You will have opportunities to shape innovative projects, and to improve the wellbeing of local people and the community.

If you're also able to give some additional time to contribute to working groups, policy discussions & fundraising opportunities on an ad-hoc basis, then that would be great but is not essential.

Please Contact the Operations Manager for further details or for a copy of the nomination form.

LATEST BIRD SIGHTINGS

The good news goes on - more and more evidence that the bird population is returning to the wonderful balance of species pre 1990, but with the recent cold wet weather, very few migrant species have been seen since last month's Bird Report.

The most interesting sightings around the island in June have been 'in the sky' – but not birds: a sun-pillar towards Eday in mid-month (see photo), and an amazing cloud formation – resembling an albino Sperm Whale leaping from the sea - over 'Lodge' on 20th (see photo). Whilst on the ground, it has been difficult not to see a Painted Lady butterfly among the wild flowers particularly in the gardens and roadside verges (see photo taken in the garden at Osen).

The Reed Buntings have taken up residence at Matpow where they nested last year (see photo of the male taken from the car) and one or two Wood Pigeons have been seen – see photo of one on the fence at Linksquoy.

Mid-summer is generally a quiet time for birds but the lochs will soon start to attract migrant wading species and there is always the chance of a Rosy Starling among the flocks of the common species feeding among the freshly cut/cleared silage. (see photo taken at Holin Farm some years ago).

The 70th North Isles Sports 2019

On 15th June 2019 the Stronsay North Isles Sports team went to Westray to compete in the North Isles Sports competition, it was the 70th anniversary. Although it actually started in 1948, they missed a year out somewhere in the middle. Which means it actually started 71 years ago. The North Isles Sports competition is a day of sports either hosted by Westray, Sanday or Stronsay (they take turns every year) and is a day of fun but often competitive individual and team sports. The main teams that compete are Westray, Stronsay, Sanday and Papay (Papa Westray) but sometimes Eday and North Ronaldsay take part. Each island has either one or more colours to represent their team e.g. Stronsay is red and black, Westray is Green and Black, Sanday is Blue and White and Papay is orange. Because it was the 70th anniversary there was also veteran fun events including: Shot putt, Long jump and some runs. And in the Primary fun events there was 75m sprint, Standing Long jump and shot putt. Some other events were: High Jump (School children and adults), Long jump (School Children and adults), . 100m (School children and adults), 200m (School Children and adults), 400m (School Children and adults), 1500m (Only adults) and relay (4x 100m) (school children and adults). And there was also Netball and Football. The school netball team did very well in the netball as both teams were a lot older than us and our team was mainly primaries, Sanday beat us 6-0 and Westray beat us 3-1. Here are some results for the other events: P4/5 GIRLS STANDING LONG JUMP: 1ST Lizzie Harcus (W) 2nd Scarlet Hoque (Sa) 3rd Martha Bremner (St) P4/5 BOYS STANDING LONG JUMP 1ST Jamie Holland (St) 2nd Finlay Risbridger (W) Finlay (Sa) P6/7 GIRLS STANDING LONG JUMP 1ST Millie Dennison (with two other competitors) (St) P6/7 BOYS STANDING LONG JUMP: 1st Milo (W) 2nd Melvin Holland (St) and Ruari Towrie (Sa) TUG OF WAR: STRONSAY!! I think the Tug of War team did well to come 1st for the 3rd time in a row. As there was some really hard competition.

STEPHEN CLACKSON'S LETTER FROM SCHOOL PLACE

Reporting on the exploits of your councillor in Orkney and beyond

A pod of pilot whales circling at Stywick, Sanday on the 26th May 2019.
Were they corralling a shoal of fish or hoping to join in the Soulka?

At the first Education, Leisure & Housing Committee (ELH) meeting since the “reshuffle” I was reappointed to the Orkney College Management Council, the Education Quality & Standards Consultative Group, and the Housing Strategies Consultative Group, and I shall be continuing in my roles as OIC’s representative on the Highlands & Islands Science Skills Academy Leadership Board and the University of the Highlands & Islands Foundation.

At the Monitoring & Audit Committee meeting there was an internal audit report about OIC’s scheme for employee review, development and training. I asked about how these are achieved for OIC staff living in the Isles, and the chair has requested that an exercise be undertaken to ensure that Isles-based employees are not disadvantaged and have access to the same service provision as those Council employees who live and work on the Mainland.

I had an enjoyable day at the 70th anniversary North Isles Sports in Westray. The North Isles Sports is an occasion where I am able to meet constituents from a large part of my ward all in the same place at the same time. The adult results were: Sanday 26, Westray 70, Stronsay 24, Papay 36, Eday 12. The school results were: Sanday 44, Westray 49, Stronsay 25. Stronsay won the tug-o-war. Now, last year’s Sports in Stronsay were billed as the 69th, which would make this year’s the 70th, however, if the first North Isles Sports took place in 1949, they should be the 71st! Were they cancelled one year?

Sadly, owing to air transport intransigence, I was unable to attend the North Ronaldsay Schoolhouse Opening and Island Conference. I was particularly sorry to miss this event, given my past involvement (as Vice-Chair of ELH) in determining the future of the North Ronaldsay School and its schoolhouse (see the February and March 2017 issues of my Letter).

At the Policy & Resources Committee meeting it was encouraging to hear that a “participation request” from Westray Community Council related to improving the safety of pedestrians and vehicle manoeuvring at Rapness Pier was granted, and that the resulting “Outcome Improvement Process” is proving reasonably successful in the interim.

Other meetings I have attended this month include: a Community Led Support meeting in Sanday; North Ronaldsay Community Council; a meeting about the use of North Ronaldsay School; a meeting about the island swimming pools; Orkney Health & Care Committee; presentations on progress with the outline business case for our inter-island transport (one together with community council chairs and transport reps), and meetings of the Board of Orkney Ferries.

I have been making enquiries about where our recycled rubbish goes: waste paper is utilised by Saica Natur for paper manufacture; corrugated card is sold to Belgian card manufacturers; aluminium goes to Novellis in Cheshire, where it is made into ingots and exported to Europe; glass is retained by OIC to use as an aggregate in concrete; garden waste is composted by OIC; and the residual rubbish is sent to the Energy Recovery Plant in Shetland, where it is incinerated to supply a district heating system in Lerwick.

These 'Nature Notes' featuring Stronsay were contained in a series of three articles by 'W.G.' published in the 'Orcadian' in December 1966. Parts 1 and 2 were included in previous editions of the 'Limpet' and part 3 is shown below. Depending on your interests, this is possibly the most interesting of the three with its statistics for agriculture in Stronsay and some of the other North Isles. It is sad to note that in 1958 we are told there were 93 farms in Stronsay and now there are only about 20 separately farmed units. It would be interesting to know how many were employed in agriculture then compared to the present day. There is also a list of shells found on the Rothiesholm sands - anyone fancy the challenge of seeing how many can be found there now?

Nature Notes

The Island of Stronsay

Part III

The tourist to Orkney nowadays may be pleasantly surprised to find how easily and comfortably accessible the North Isles have become by means of the large, modern, well-appointed M.V. "Orcadia."

It is true that the morning start may be early and that the traveller must generally be prepared to stay overnight in the islands, but the first of these handicaps is well catered for in the luxurious suite of overnight cabins on the ship, while on most of the islands excellent accommodation will be found ashore.

On a visit to Stronsay a few weeks ago we left Kirkwall at 6 a.m., staying overnight aboard ship, came hungrily on deck for breakfast off Shapinsay, and by 9 a.m. were excellently accommodated in the Stronsay Hotel, which stands at the head of the pier.

The Island

The total acreage is 8,736, of which 8,117 consist of crops and rough grass. In size it is the fourth largest of the North Isles, being exceeded by Sanday, Westray and Rousay all of which are between 11,000 and 12,000 acres. The proportion of cultivated acreage in Stronsay, as in Westray and Sanday, is high though there is a recent tendency for grass acreage to increase. The following statistics (Moiral Report 1960) give some interesting details of livestock etc. in the larger isles of the North Isles Group for the year 1958:

Stronsay: No. of Farms - 93; Horses - 41; Cattle - 2,922; Sheep - 6,386; Poultry - 17,181; Boats - 25.

Sanday (incl. N. Ronaldsay): No. of Farms - 138; Horses - 63; Cattle - 4,693; Sheep - 7,105; Poultry - 39,579; Boats - 46

Eday: No. of Farms - 70; Horses - 15; Cattle - 993; Sheep - 2,899; Poultry - 17,136; Boats - 24.

Westray: No. of Farms - 203; Horses - 107; Cattle - 3,983; Sheep - 5,064; Poultry - 41,792.

Rousay (including Egilsay & Wyre): No. of Farms - 68; Horses - 38; Cattle - 2,046; Sheep - 3,916; Poultry - 18,001; Boats - 22.

So far as crops are concerned, the following figures (in acres) for 1958 from the same source may be of interest:

Stronsay: Grain - 1,471; Rotation Grass - 3,050.

Sanday (incl. N. Ronaldsay): Grain - 2,127; Rotation Grass - 4,026.

Eday: Grain - 542; Rotation Grass - 1,448.

Westray: Grain- 2,080; Rotation Grass - 3,219.

Rousay (incl. Egilsay & Wyre): Grain - 1,099; Rotation Grass - 1,973.

Stronsay is mainly low-lying, with a central road-ridge running along the island from north to south. The highest land is at Burgh Hill in the southeast, being 154 feet above sea level. Beaches are easily accessible and since one of our objects was to search for shells we had no difficulty in hiring a car to reach them.

A glance at the map will show that at the narrow waist of the island there are three large bays, each of them having a mile-long stretch of fine sand. There are Mill Bay, facing east; Rothiesholm Bay (or the Bay of Holland), facing south; and St Catherine's Bay, facing west.

Having previously consulted our Orkney shell-expert, Mr Robert Rendall, I was obliged to receive from him his paper entitled "A Survey of Some Orkney Beaches," reprinted from the "Journal of Conchology" in 1954.

Of these three beaches Mr Rendall says in his paper-"I have visited most of our Orkney shores, and can say without hesitation that these three Stronsay bays are undoubtedly the best collecting grounds in the islands for bivalves, especially Rothiesholm Bay and St Catherine's Bay. Incidentally, these two, like the nearby Bay of Backaskaill in the island of Sanday (a bay of similar character and fauna) face what may be termed the inner waters of Orkney which, although swept by strong tideways, are not exposed to the unremitting fierceness of the open sea."

Stimulated by Mr Rendall's keenness and advice we searched these bays avidly. We came to the conclusion that, of the three mentioned, Rothiesholm Bay at the time of our visit had by far the richest store of shells. Mr Rendall and other readers may therefore be interested in the following list of shells found on the shore of Rothiesholm (I am indebted to Mrs McMillan of Liverpool Museum for identifying doubtful specimens):

Patina pellucida, the Pellucid Limpet. Glycymeris glycymeris, the Dog Cockle or Comb Shell.

Pecten maximus, The Great Scallop.

Phacoides borealis, the Northern Lucina. Cyprina islandica, the Iceland Cyprina (or Coe Shell).

Cardium echinatum, the Prickly Cockle. Cardium edule, the Common Cockle.

Cardium crassum, the Smooth Cockle Dosinia lupinus, the Smooth Artemis.

Venus fasciata, the Banded Venus.

Venus striatula, the Striped Venus,

Paphia pullastra, the Pullet Carpet Shell. Donax vittatus, The Banded Wedge Shell.

Tellina tenuis, the Thin Tellin.

Gari fervensis, the Faroese Sunset Shell.
 Ensis ensis, the Sword Razor Shell.
 Ensis siliqua, the Pod Razor Shell.
 Macra corallina, the Rayed Trough Shell. Spisula solida, the Thick Trough Shell.
 Spisula subtruncata, the Cut Trough Shell. Mya truncata, the Blunt Gaper
 Lutraria lutraria, the Common Otter Shell.
 Colus gracilis, the Slender Spindle Shell.
 Buccinum undatum, the Waved Whelk.,
 Gibbula magus, the Pointed Top Shell.
 Patella vulgata, the Common Limpet.
 Calliostoma ziziphynum, the Common Top Shell.
 Gibbula cineraria, the Grey Top Shell. Lacuna vineta, the Banded Chunk Shell.
 Aporrhais pespelicani, the Pelican's Foot. Natica catena, the Large Necklace Shell.
 Trivia monacha, the Grottie-buckie.
 Tricla lignaria, the Canoe Shell.
 Modiolus modiolus, the Common Horse Mussel.
 Chlamys opercularis, the Common Scallop.
 Chlamys distorta, the Distorted Scallop. Tellina pygmaea, the Little Tellin.
 Mya arenaria, the Sand Gaper. Cochloidesma praetenua, the Thin Lantern Shell.
 Thracia villosiuscula, a var. of the Paper Lantern Shell.
 Littorina littorea, the Common Periwinkle

We visited also the point at Odiness where there is a stretch of shell sand, largely composed of broken Horse Mussels but with a numerous collection of the common uni-valves. Among these we found two more unusual species, Lora turricula, the Turreted Conelet and Diodora apertura, the Keyhole Limpet.

On my return I showed Mr Rendall an unusual flat shell-like object, rather like part of an echinoderm, which neither he nor I had seen before. Mrs McMillan found this puzzling and has sent it to an expert at the British Museum, from whom I hope to note its identification when received.

Population

The highest recorded population of Stronsay (Barclay's "The Population of Orkney") shows 1,267 in the year 1871; this compares with 497 in the 1961 Census. This shows a decline from the maximum of 61%, which nevertheless is not quite so marked as the average rate of decline for the North Isles as a whole. . Towards the end of the First World War there were four schools on Stronsay, with about 140 pupils and seven teachers. By 1958 these numbers had declined to 88 pupils with 4 teachers. Now there is only one school in the centre of the island.

Fishing

As has been indicated in an earlier note, Dutch sailing vessels were engaged in fishing at Stronsay as long ago as the early 17th century. Lobster, herring and cod fishing grew in importance from the early 1800's. The older part of the village of Whitehall was built during this period in the early 19th century, and the village then became an important centre of herring fishing, with many hundreds of fishing boats taking part.

The 1842 New Statistical Account gives the following information: “The fishing, which is of the most importance to the great body of the inhabitants, is the sillock or cooth. Lobsters are caught during April, May and June, using small nets with flesh or fish as bait. The lobsters when caught are transferred to chests floating in some sheltered place, from which they are taken generally every week, and conveyed to London by welled smacks.”

“Cod-fishing for export commenced in 1828, prosecuted by small decked sloops. The herring-fishing was begun here by Mr David Drever, farmer at Huip, in the year 1814. Soon after, the harbour in Papa Sound became a great resort of boats from the North Isles and indeed from All Orkney. Mr Laing of Papdale, the proprietor of the adjacent ground, has built a considerable village for the accommodation of fishermen who have come from distant parts to reside here, and likewise a commodious pier for the curing and the loading of fish. The herring fishing commences towards the end of July and continues for from 6 to 8 weeks, during which the number of boats has been sometimes about 400, most of them manned by four or five men. There are also anchored in Papa Sound from 20 to 35 vessels, sloops and brigs, mostly from the south west of Scotland. And in addition to coopers and others there are several hundreds of women employed in cleaning and salting the fish. Numbers of persons also resort to the station to traffic with the curers and fishers while visitors come to visit the busy scene, so that the fishing season is a memorable part of the year in Stronsay. The number of crans caught by a boat varies from small amounts to about 200, the average being 35-70.”

Such was the bustle of trade in Whitehall more than one hundred years ago. What happened thereafter? Till the time of the First World War the herring-fishing prospered. A new pier (the south pier, now almost entirely unused) was built in 1910-11, and a fish-mart was built at that time. At about that time "there were five fish-curing stations on Papa Stronsay": (Moir's Report), "and a further 15 at Whitehall. Each station employed about 60-90 people, mostly fisher girls from the North of Scotland, totalling about 1,500 of the latter. There were four shipbrokers at Whitehall, exporting to Russia and other Continental ports, salt was imported from Scandinavia and Spain, barrels from Aberdeen (in addition to those made on the island). It is estimated that at the peak period of the herring fishing there were some 300 fishing vessels employing about 2,400 fishermen." Between the wars the industry slowly declined although it still was bringing prosperity to the island. The Second World War and its aftermath gave the knock-out blow, so that by 1950 Whitehall ceased to be a fishing centre of any importance. Alas, there be are now only six boats of small seine-net size operating locally from Whitehall. The old ruinous East Pier as well as the new West Pier are now disused and the fishermen's houses in the eastern part of the village are largely dilapidated. The population of the village has declined to a little over one hundred, and the long frontage has a bleak, deserted look.

Conclusion

Space forbids further reference to the many natural attractions of this island with its sandy bays, brown cliffs, trim green fields, its air of unpretentious prosperity and quiet contentment and symphonious sound of bird and wave. The timid honking of nearly a hundred Whooper Swans on the small loch at Rothiesholm, blended with the rhythmical swish of wavellets on the sands of the bay, is a symphony that will remain long in the memory.

W. G.

On the Saturdays June 22nd, July 20th, and August 17th, I am opening my garden to interested visitors from 2-5pm, weather permitting.

My garden is not suitable for young children to play, there just isn't any room, but children are welcome to play on the unfenced grass outside. If you have limited mobility like me you might find it useful to bring your stick.

If you would like to come please ring to book 01856 252083 (satellite phone hence odd number).

KIRK CORNER

Locum minister—Scott Daily. Manse telephone 616286

One of the advantages to writing these articles is it helps me reflect on the many benefits of living on Stronsay. Recently I was thinking how peaceful it is, a normally quiet and tranquil place in an often-chaotic world. The friendly people, the beautiful beaches, the lovely farmlands and gardens, and the generally slow pace of life contribute to a certain level of calmness. But even in the most idyllic of places there can be trouble and turmoil, both inwardly and outwardly. Somedays I am amazed at how easily my “peace” is disturbed, whether it is our boys not getting ready for school quickly enough, concern over a loved one’s health, news of tragic events, or decisions being made by others that I disagree with. And sometimes I am just not a peace within myself, I am both my biggest fan and harshest critic. As Jesus said of the disciples, often my spirit is willing to do right, but my flesh is weak, and I end up being in inward turmoil at my failure to do something. There have been times where I have realized that my lack of peace is because I know inwardly that everything is not right in my life. I become worried others might see just messed up I really am. I am like Adam and Eve who use to walk with God in the garden, but who after sinning tried to hide from Him.

The past month in the Sunday morning services the Bible passages we have been looking at were from Paul’s letter to the Philippians. Paul wrote to them about God’s peace that is beyond our human understanding. A peace that can only come from God, as we cast our cares and anxieties on Him. When we come to Him in faith and confess our sins and mistakes, then He forgives us and loves and cares for us. We can have a wonderful assurance that we are in His hands, we can have a heavenly perspective that realizes, like Paul, that we can do all things through Christ who gives us strength. We can have peace with God and a steadfast hope for the future. I certainly need to be reminded again and again that when troubles and inconveniences spring up, when things take a rough turn, when clouds suddenly cover up the sun, that I need to refocus. It is not always easy, that is why Paul states the peace comes from God and is beyond our understanding. We need to focus on Him, His amazing love and care. We need to pray for His strength and ask for this peace. The apostle Paul also taught the Philippians that we must train ourselves to look not only on our own needs but the needs of others. This involves two parts, first of course we need to have an outward focus, where instead of looking at our own needs and wants only, we also look to help out others. Secondly, it requires us to let others know when we are in need. I am not sure which part is harder for me as they both demand self-sacrifice and humility. I have written often before about how well this community does in helping each other out and it is clear how important it is to continue to do so, now I want to encourage us all to share our needs. One need that I have experienced myself on occasion is that need of transportation around the island.

We have been blessed with many helping us during times when our car was being repaired or one of us was using it off the island, and we want to both thank all who helped and offer to help any who may need a lift anywhere. Certainly, if you need a ride to the church service on Sundays let us know and we will seek to arrange one, but if any need arises or there is anything with which I can assist you please feel free to contact the manse.

Blessings
Scott Daily

Sunday services start at 11am unless otherwise stated.
